ON THE SHIFT OF DIFFERENT LOCAL SETS OF SYBILLANTS IN KARTVELIAN AND DAGHESTAN LAN- GUAGES AND DIALECTS

In the dialects of the Georgian language, as well as in the Zan and Svan dialects we find [s] (original) and [S] sibilants of the Proto-kartvelian language.

This paper discusses a part of the vocabulary of dialects and of the literary language in which there is no other reason, apart from dialects, that could have caused [s] >[S] shifts.
