VAZHA-PSHAVELA AND GOETHE'S VIEWS ABOUT THE NATURE

Vazha-Pshavela depicts the Nature with an original method. In most cases he sees it realistically in the sense that his attention is captured by the spirit and content of the Nature. He makes the reader feel the relationship between the human being and the Nature.

On the other hand Goethe was aimed at revealing the truth about the Nature and the society and conveys it through his amassed experience. Goethe reflects various differing sensations of the Nature by the man. In his theoretic views he provides novel ideas about something which he terms as "nature" and identifies it with the concept of "reality". According to Goethe human being is an indispensable part of the Nature.
